It confronts society with much deeper questions that cannot be easily accommodated in media conceptualisations, albeit the media can lead the debates. For example, the Kilkenny Report (McGuinness, 1993) and the Roscommon Report (Gibbons, 2010) exposed the absence of children's rights in the Irish Constitution, necessitating a referendum in 2012.

Innocence Betrayed is the first sustained attempt to address the issue of how we can best protect children from the threat posed by predatory paedophiles. It asks all the difficult questions: Can paedophiles be treated? Do they change their behaviour? Does naming and shaming help protect our children or make matters worse?
